Abstract

This paper examines the content of the term $\varphi(\lambda \circ \zeta)$ $\theta \in \delta \tilde{v}$ in Gregory's work De Vita Moysis in comparison to Philo's account.

In Gregory, the notions friend of God ($\varphi(i\lambda o\zeta)$ $\theta \epsilon o\tilde{v}$), servant of God ($oik\epsilon \tau \eta\zeta$ $\theta \epsilon o\tilde{v}$), and image of God ($\kappa \alpha \tau'$ $\epsilon ik \acute{v} \acute{v} \alpha \theta \epsilon o\tilde{v}$) are mutually explanatory notions, identifying the very essence of the life of virtue ($\dot{\epsilon} v \alpha \rho \acute{\epsilon} \tau \eta \pi o \lambda \iota \tau \epsilon \acute{\iota} \alpha$). The combination of the two terms – friend and household servant – presumes that the one whom God calls His friend shares all things with Him who also remains his Lord. The sharing is further specified in Gregory's work by the term $\kappa \alpha \tau' \epsilon \iota \kappa \acute{v} v \alpha$, which presumes reflecting God's ineffable qualities as a piece of glass reflects the light of the sun.

Thus, for Gregory, to become $\varphi(\lambda \circ \varsigma)$ be $\varphi(\lambda \circ \varsigma)$ no longer means to be initiated into divine mysteries inaccessible to other people. To be God's friend is to be a recipient of Christ's gifts and of His life, and to offer your own life in return.

Summarising his treatise on the life of virtue, De Vita Moysis, Gregory refers to Moses' title $\varphi i \lambda o \zeta \theta \varepsilon o \tilde{v}$ as the title under which the perfection of his life could be subsumed¹. While there is a considerable amount of literature published on De Vita Moysis, surprisingly, Moses' title $\varphi i \lambda o \zeta \theta \varepsilon o \tilde{v}$, despite its central place within Gregory's work, has hitherto received scant attention from scholars. Not only is there a lack of clarity on the exact meaning of this term, but it also remains unclear how it relates to
