Abstract

Religious truth came by Jesus Christ; therefore everything that we do religiously must be authorized by the Lord. The description of the true Christian is very short and simple. A true Christian is a person who walks by faith. Christians have both the obligation and the privilege to walk by the unalterable truth of God. We must seek to establish God’s authority for what we are to believe and do in all religious matters. All things done by Christians must be done “in the name of Christ” or “by the authority of Christ.” Today, some other truths appeared. “Truth” which serves modernity and has characteristics of neopaganism. Many Christians reject the Truth of Christianity and follow the “truth” of neopaganism. Can these two truths can be compromised? Should a Christian put into practice the teachings of modern world which lead him away to christianity? Can we as christians serve two masters? In this paper we are going to examine how a Christian should avoid the sirens of modernity in order not be trapped in neopaganistic customs and ethics.

Introduction

At the dawn of the twentieth-first century, a Christian has to face the sirens of modernity. Many Christian and mainly the Orthodox refuse to accept customs and challenges of globalization. For this reason they are accused as fontamentalist, dinosaurs of Christianity, as Amis. The religious Orthodox Christian who are
